ness, are futile and even harmful. A close study of the methods of organization and operation of the greater industrial corporations, their relation to transportation companies, both rail and water, their methods of competition, the extension of their business throughout many States, and the sale of their commodities throughout the world proves that they have actually gone beyond the possibility of proper supervision or control by the single State which gave them corporate existence. Their relation to the transportation companies alone is a sufficient reason for bringing them under Federal regulation.

"It is idle to claim that the railroads are wholly at fault for rebates, discriminations, and other devices for affording to one shipper improper advantages over a competitior. It is impossible to prevent such abuses by purely penal legislation. This does not mean that the enforcement of the anti-trust law has not been beneficial, for it has. Its enforcement has compelled some respect for the law, which, until recently, was wholly lacking. But so far as effecting a permanent change of the conditions which that law denounces, but little has been dome. The imposition of a penalty upon a combination simply drives the men in that combination to the formation of another device for accomplishing the same purpose, and this for the reason that combination is an industrial necessity, and hence will be engaged in despite penal legislation.

"By the exercise of the effective of the same components of the conditions which hence will be engaged in despite penal legislation.

Can Provide a Method.

Can Provide a Method.

By the exercise of the affirmative power granted under the commerce clause. Congress can with safety provide a method by which reasonable combination may be permitted. This method must be founded upon an act of the Federal Government, which will give to corporations engaged in interstate and foreign commerce standing and recognition under a Federal act. It may be accomplished either by a license to engage in such commerce or by a charter granted by the Federal Government. Under either form Congress should provide all requirements necessary to insure publicity and honesty in promotion, organization, capitalization and conduct of the corporation, reserving to the Government the right of inspection of the books of such corporation and the further right—the most important of all—to stop the operations of such corporation if it becomes a violator of the Federal statutes, at all times preserving to the corporation and its stockholders the right of judicial appeal against the improper exercise of executive authority.

Highways Should Be Open to All.

Highways Should Be Open to All.

Highways Should Be Open to All.

"It is universally recognized that the great highways of commerce should be open to all upon equal terms. It is likewise true that the opportunities for the individual to engage in industrial enterprise should be equally free. The individual is not strong enough ordinarily to protect himself against a great corporation. He can be secure in his rights only under a law which subjects the corporation to regulation by a Government whose jurisdiction is broad enough and whose power is great enough to compete outflow to resulation and dishonest competition. Under such a law would lessen the possibilities of unfair and dishonest competition. Under such a law the questions of the reasonableness of combination of compiracies in restraint of trade, of monepolistic control, would be left, as they should be, for the determination of the courts; and the Government would then have as it should have, the opportunity at all times to know the detailed operations of those corporations to which it has granted great responsibilities, and over which it will exercise its full measure of protection so long as they obey the laws of the land." ave of the land."

APPEALS TO POLICY-HOLDERS

Paul Morton of Equitable Writes Letter Regarding Legislation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—An appeal to the pollcy holders in all the States of the Union to lend their assistance in preventing adverse legislation, is made by Prevident Paul Morton of the Equitable Life Assurance society, in a circular letter which is being sent to policy holders. President Morton says that the insurance business is certain to be the subject of great consideration by Legislatures soon to convene, as a result of what has been printed and said about insurance during the last six months.

Needs Honesty.

"But you cannot give men character nor make them honest by preamble, resolution of enactment," says the letter. "What the life insurance business needs above everything is honesty and good business administration. There can be no objection to proper legislation safeguarding the business, but it should be sound and sare. The society depends upon its policy bolders to see that there is no unreasonable legislation enacted. It may from time to time call their attention to measures calculated to do them harm, but under no effective that the first requirements of every state and Government, and rely upon our policy holders to see that no injustice is done.

Legislation in States.

"Any unfair insurance law or unfair insurance fax measure enacted by your State Legislature insures you and reduces the dividend earnings of your policy. Tour dividends would be nearly 10 per cent larger if it were not for the State taxes and license fees that the society is obliged to pay."

As to Political Contributions.

Mr. Morton expresses the opinion that the Equitable has no right to contribute to political campaign funds, and informs the polity howers that no such contributions will be made by the acciety in the future. He says in future the society's reserve will be invested in real estate mortgages or the securities of other well-established corporations serving those sections of the country which produce the premiums

Financial Condition of Equitable. He assures the policy holders that the finanrial condition of the society as disclosed by a most careful examination by computent and disinterested accountants is excellent, and that many economies already in practice and others yet to be made surely will enhance its conditions. He urges all policy holders to continue the payment of their premiums, and says the investigation of the society has convinced him that there is no cheaper way than this for them to have sound life insurance.

Marriage in the Way.

The man, who is an Ottoman subject, is 21 years old, and some four years ago he made the acquaintance of the girl, who was then 16, and fell violently in love with her. After a brief courtship he took up his abode with the damest and, being married, started on proceedings with a view to divorce.

At first everything went on amouthly enough, but the clerk was not particularly well endowed with this world's goods and his companion gradually grew discontented. She left him several times, but he always managed to bring her back.

Woman Runs Away.

Last month the pair moved to a small flat in an obscure street, but had scarcely settled there when the young woman ran away. Her friend hunted for her in every direction, but in vain. At last he applied to her mother, a widow 39 years of age, who finally accepted an invitation to dine with him. She had hardly made her appearance when the noise of a violent altercation was heard by the neighbors.

Stabbed Her to the Heart.

Her host reproached her violently for having as he chose to put it. led her daughter astray, and soon a shill scream resounded, followed by the banging of a door as the man left the apartment and bolted down the staircase on his way to the police station. She had been stabled to the heart because she had refused to say where the girl was.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—The surgeons at the county hospital have been marvelling today at the tenacity with which the feeble spark of life continues to flicker in the crushed and shattered body of young Mrs. W. J. Kenney. That she lived at all after her awful fall is also a cause for wonder.

In her conscious moments she repeated her earlier story that she had quarreied with her husband from whom she had separated and that he had hurled her from the fifth floor of the United States hotel. Her jaw and arms were fractured and she was internally injured. The doctors say she cannot live through the night. She is 22 years old and became a waitress after separating from Kenney, who is a private detective.

She said her maiden name was Alice A. Selby and that she was born in Virginia, She has lived at a number of Eastern cities.
